Mrs. Mary Ann Clark, Native of City, Dies

Funeral Rites Will Be Held Tomorrow, With Burial in Congressional Cemetery

Mrs. Mary Ann Purcell Clark, 78, a native of Washington whose family had lived here for two generations before her, died Sunday at her home, 924 Independence avenue southwest.

The daughter of Fletcher and Elizabeth Purcell, both Washington natives, Mrs. Clark had moved to the Independence avenue address after the death of her husband, Harry F. Clark, 15 years ago. She lived there with a lifelong friend, Mrs. Mattie V. Douglas. She had lived on Harvard street during her husband's life.

She was a member of the Sixth Presbyterian Church, now on Sixteenth street, but formerly at Sixth and C streets southwest.

Mrs. Clark has no close surviving relatives, although cousins live in the city.

Funeral services will be held at her former residence at 2 p.m. tomorrow, followed by burial in Congressional Cemetery.
