George A. Cohill Dead

Was Master Printer and Member of Masonic Fraternity

George A. Cohill, a well known master printer and an active member of the Masonic fraternity, died Thursday at the Emergency Hospital after a short illness. He was fifty-five years old. The funeral will be held from the undertaking establishment of Harry Padgett, 730 11th street southeast, this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, under the auspices of Hope Lodge No. 20, F.A.A.M., of which he was a past master. Mr. Cohill was a native of Washington. He was a son of the late John P. and Mary E. Cohill, well known residents of Southeast Washington during their lives. Mr. Cohill was a member of the Shrine, the chapter, commandery and of Hope Lodge. His widow, Mrs. Emma V. Cohill, survives him.
