

Crawford Reid Coleman

(-)

The Evening Star, January 14, 1926, p. 43

Body Brought Here

Special Dispatch to The Star

Winchester, Va., January 13

The body of Mrs. Crawford Reid Coleman, 78, who died yesterday at the home of Louis E. Rice, with whose family she had an apartment, was taken to Washington today for interment in Congressional Cemetery. She was the widow of George Coleman, for many years a prominent lawyer of Portsmouth, Va. Her parents were the late William and Catherine Nash Reid of Norfolk and Portsmouth. No children nor brothers nor sisters survive.

The Washington Post, January 14, 1926, p. 2

Virginia Obituary

Winchester, Jan. 13 -- The body of Mrs. Crawford Reid Coleman, 78 years old, who died at her home here yesterday, was taken to Washington today for interment in the Congressional cemetery. She was the widow of George Coleman, for many years a prominent lawyer of Portsmouth, Va. Her parents were the late William and Catherine Nash Reid, of Norfolk and Portsmouth. Mrs. Coleman was a cousin of the Rev. Dr. Andrew Reid, pastor of the Church of the Pilgrims, Washington, and of Henry Van Dyke, former Minister to the Netherlands.