

James Cunningham, Jr.

( - 11 Nov 1880)

---

Cunningham. At 2 a.m. Thursday, November 11, 1880 of cerebral congestion, James Cunningham, jr. in the 35th year of his age. Funeral at 1 p.m. tomorrow, November 12 from his late residence 723 6th street n.w.

The Evening Star, November 12, 1880

Locals

It is stated that Mr. James Cunningham, the clerk in the War department whose sudden death Wednesday night was mentioned in yesterday's Star died from the effects of a fall on 6th street between G and H streets.

The Evening Star, November 11, 1880

Locals

James Cunningham, Jr., a clerk in the Surgeon General's Office, War department, died suddenly last night at his residence, of apoplexy. Mr. C. was well known in this community, and a large circle of acquaintances will mourn his sudden death. The funeral takes place tomorrow at 1 o'clock p.m. from 723 6th street northwest. Major Hanneman, of the D.C. Artillery, of which deceased was formerly a lieutenant, has detached First Lieut. John O'Connell and First Sergt. Peter Meagher, Battery A, in full uniform, to act as pall bearers, and requested the officers and men of the battery also to attend the funeral.