

Pauline Kentzinger

( - 2 Feb 1864)

---

The Evening Star, February 2, 1864

Sudden Death

Sunday evening, a number of ladies and gentlemen were sitting in the house of Mrs. Pierre, corner of F and 11th streets, conversing sociably, and a gentleman told an amusing anecdote, causing much laughter. Mrs. Pauline Kentzinger a middle-aged lady, laughed heartily, but suddenly stopped, and her head fell back upon the chair. She continued in that position, and one of the company went to see what was the reason of her silence, and discovered that she was dead. The family physician pronounced the death the result of heart disease.