

Charles A. Kyle

(1890 – 17 Oct 1918)

Kyle. On Thursday, October 17, 1918, at 6:10 a.m., Charles Joseph Kyle, beloved husband of Eva M. Kyle (nee Crawford) and beloved son of James A. and Ida M. Kyle, aged twenty-eight years.

Forget thee! Oh, when life shall cease
To thrill this heart of mine,
And not till then will I forget
One look or tone of thine.

By His Loving Mother

Funeral from his late residence, 1827 W street, Anacostia, D.C., Sunday at 2 p.m. Interment at Congressional cemetery. Friends invited.

The Evening Star, August 2, 1915, p. 8

Injures Foot in Auto Accident

Charles Kyle, twenty-five years old, 1369 F street northeast, was treated at Emergency Hospital yesterday afternoon for severe injuries to his foot. He sustained the injuries as a result of the breaking of the clutch of his automobile. The car was at 14th and E streets northeast when the accident happened.