

A. Maurice Low

(1860 – 17 Jun 1929)

Low. On Monday, June 17, 1929 at Garfield Hospital, Sir A. Maurice Low. Remains resting at the S.H. Hines Co. funeral home, 2901 14th street northwest. Services (private) at the S.H. Hines Co. funeral home, Saturday, June 22, at 10 a.m. Kindly omit flowers.

The Evening Critic, March 29, 1883, p. 1

Personal

Mr. A. Maurice Low, one of the brightest and best of the younger journalists of this city, a gentleman in every sense of the word, and who has been on the staff of the Republican for a long time, will go to New York city on Sunday night to accept a permanent position on Freund's Daily.

The Evening Star, June 17, 1929, p. 2

Sir A. Maurice Low, Journalist, Dead

Correspondent of the London Post, Ill Month, Resident Here 15 Years

Sir A. Maurice Low, chief American correspondent for the London Post, with headquarters here for many years, and widely known author of a number of books, died in Garfield Hospital after an illness of about a month. He had resided here for the past 15 years.

Mr. Low was a brother of Sir Sidney Low, noted writer and biographer.

Born in London in 1860, Mr. Low was educated at King's College, London, and in Austria, and later obtained an M.A. degree from Dartmouth College.

Widely known as a journalist, he was for a while correspondent for the Boston Globe. He also had done important work for the United States and English governments. In 1900 he investigated for the United States Department of Labor certain phases of English labor legislation, and several years later investigated and reported on the functioning of English trade unions and industries.

Mr. Low was knighted for valuable services to the British government. He was a member of the Chevalier Order of Leopold, the Imperial Order of the Rising Sun and the Order of the Redeemer, the latter of Greece.

Among the books of which he was author are "The Supreme Surrender," written in 1901; "Protection in the United States," 1904; "American Life in Town and Country," 1905; "A Short History of Labor Legislation in Great Britain," 1907; "The American People, A Study in National Psychology," 1909, and "Woodrow Wilson, An Interpretation," 1918.

Mr. Low resided here in the Connecticut Apartments. He is survived by a son, Phillip Low of Los Angeles, Calif.

Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

The Evening Star, June 22, 1929, p. 16

Hold Funeral Rites For Sir A. Maurice Low

Funeral services for Sir A. Maurice Low, author and American correspondent for the London Post, who died in Garfield Hospital Monday after an illness of about a month were held at S.H. Hines funeral home, 2901 14th street this morning.

Sir Maurice's home was in Connecticut Apartments, 1150 Connecticut ave. Surviving him is a son, Philip Low of Los Angeles, Calif.

The Evening Star, April 6, 1886

Mr. A. Maurice Lowe has assumed the city editorship of the Post and not Mr. A.M. Soro as the types made it Saturday.

The Evening Star, June 23, 1903, p. 5

Mr. & Mrs. A. Maurice Low sail on the Oceanic next week.