C.T. Milans Dies; Patent Attorney

Native of Capital Succumbs at 53 After Long Illness

Calvin Tarkington Milans, 53, prominent patent attorney, died at National Homeopathic Hospital yesterday after a long illness. He was a native of this city, the son of Joseph D. Milans, who was in the printing and publishing business here for many years.

Mr. Milans attended the public schools here and Columbian College, now George Washington University, from which he received degrees of bachelor and master of laws and master of patent law. On his graduation, he entered practice with his brother, Joseph H. Milans, and the firm has been in offices in the McGill Building since. His home is at No. 8 Chamberlin avenue, Kenwood, Md.

He was a member of Phi Delta Phi Legal Fraternity, the American Bar Association, American Patent Law Association, Columbia Country Club, University Club and Kenwood Club. He was a past master of St. John's Lodge, No. 11, F.A.A.M.; a member of Mount Vernon Chapter, R.A.M., and at the time of his death was eminent commander of Orient Commandery, Knights Templar. He was also an officer in Almas Temple, A.A.O.N.M.S.

He is survived by his widow, the former Bessie Harley of this city; two sons, Calvin H., a senior at Dartmouth, and Austin, in school here; a daughter, Mrs. David Aicken, and four brothers, Joseph H., Robert McP., Henry G. and William B. Milans.

Funeral services will be held at 10:30 a.m. tomorrow at Gunton-Temple Memorial Presbyterian Church, followed by burial in Congressional Cemetery.
