Douglass Miller Dies Here at 80

Retired Post Office Aide Prominent in Masonic and Music Circles

Douglas G. Miller, 80, retired employe of the City Post Office, died yesterday at his home, 3821 Fourteenth street N.W., after a short illness.

A native of Fredericksburg, Va., Mr. Miller moved to Washington shortly after the Civil War and lived in South Washington, where he attended school. He learned the printing trade and worked in the Government Printing Office before beginning 37 years' service in the City Post Office. He was retired from the latter post in September, 1930. At one time Mr. Miller was in charge of the Wardman Park Hotel Post Office Station.

For many years Mr. Miller was a prominent tenor in concert and oratorio. He had been soloist at both the Episcopal Church of the Epiphany and the First Congregational Church.

Long prominent in the Masonic fraternity, Mr. Miller was a thirty-second degree Mason. He belonged to Lebanon Lodge, No. 7, F.A.A.M.; Eureka Chapter, Royal Arch Masons, and Washington Commandery, Knights Templar.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Sophie P. Miller; a son, Neville D. Miller, classified advertising manager of The Star; a daughter, Mrs. Aileen M. Burns, and brother, Bellum Miller, sr., all of this city. He also leaves a grandson, Davidson C. Miller.

Funeral services will be held at 11 a.m., Monday at the residence. Burial will be in Congressional Cemetery, with Masonic rites at the grave.
