Robert W.F. Ogilvie Dies Here at Age of 62 Years

Bore Title of Lord Banff and Long Was a Resident of Washington

Robert Walter Findlater Ogilvie, sixty-two years old, a long-time resident of Washington, died suddenly Tuesday, Mr. Ogilvie bore the title of Lord Banff.

Shortly after his marriage to Miss Irma Desha Harmon, granddaughter of Gov. Desha of Kentucky, Mr. Ogilvie and his bride went to Scotland, where he established his right to the earldom of Seafeld and the barony of Banff.

Mr. Ogilvie was a graduate of Princeton University and the Columbian Law School. At one time he practiced law in Washington and also held a position in the Department of Labor.

Funeral services will be held this afternoon in Deal's funeral parlors. Besides his wife, Lady Banff, Mr. Ogilvie is survived by a sister, the wife of Maj. W.E.P. French, U.S.A., now at Fort Myer, Va.
