Sudden Death

Last evening, Mr. David Rawlins, a well-known butcher, died quite suddenly at his residence, on Pennsylvania avenue and 12th street, as is supposed, from apoplexy. Mr. R. was holding a light in his hand while some of his employees were unhitching his horses from a wagon, and was suddenly seized with a choking sensation, and fell, dying in a very few minutes after he was taken into his residence. Mr. Rawlins has resided in the Sixth Ward during his entire life, and was well and favorably known throughout the District.
